OIL TRUCK DRIVER KILLED

AT RAILROAD CROSSING OVER PIKE NEAR LITTLESTOWN.

Driver Harry Krenzer Instantly Killed, Leaving Widow and Four Small Children.

Harry Krenzer, of Hanover, was instantly killed at about 4:18 o'clock last Friday afternoon when the oil-truck which he was driving was struck by a passenger train on the Pennsylvania Railroad at LeFevre's crossing on the Hanover pike just outside of Littlestown. This grade crossing is at an open spot and an unobstructed view can be had of the railroad track in either direction. Krenzer was returning to Hanover, traveling along the road at an easy pace in a truck of the Atlantic Refining Company. The truck and train were in full view of each other for at least a quarter of a mile beyond the crossing, and after ringing the bell and blowing the whistle no effort was made to slow up the train, for it was assumed that the truck driver would stop. The truck however shot over the crossing at the same moment that the engine started over the pike. The truck was struck squarely and Krenzer was instantly killed, his body being thrown a distance of 50 feet down the track. The head was crushed and many bones were broken. The gasoline tank body of the truck was rolled in front of the engine for a distance of more than 200 feet down the track, while the chassis was demolished and thrown over into a wheat field near. The train was stopped in little more than its own length. The two front wheels, or pony truck of the engine were derailed, the pilot demolished, and other damage sustained. Dr. C. G. Crist, coroner of Adams county, was sent for and arrived on the scene about 6:30 P. M. He questioned many witnesses and after that deemed an inquest unnecessary, exonerating the railroad company and train crew from all blame. The train was in charge of Conductor Harry M. Badders, of Littlestown. The engineer was W. H. Minker, Lancaster, and Fireman Sonco, of York. Assistant Supervisor G. P. Emory, who was on the engine in the fireman's seat. Harry Krenzer was 40 years of age and is survived by a widow and four small children. The funeral was held on Monday with interment in Hanover Cemetery.

Deer Destroy Forest Trees.

Deer are doing so much damage in Mont Alto State Nursery that the Pennsylvania Department of Forestry has determined to put up a fence around the tract. Prof. E. A. Ziegler, Director of the State Forest Academy, said the deer kill every year about 100,000 young forest trees in the nursery.

The animals have multiplied so rapidly in the neighborhood of Mont Alto that in many places the soil is trampled like that of a sheep pasture. By rubbing their horns on the trunks and by biting the small branches, the deer have seriously damaged many rare trees planted for exhibition and experimental purposes. It is especially noticeable that the most frequent attacks have been made on species of trees introduced from foreign countries.

HOSPITAL NEARING FINISH

BRANCH AUXILIARIES BEING ESTABLISHED IN COUNTY.

All Over the Interest and Support of Adams County People is Being Shown.

The interest of Adams county people in the Hospital built and dedicated by Mr. and Mrs. John M. Warner for their benefit is being shown in a remarkable way, giving assurance of the future support of that institution.

The blessing of a hospital has impressed itself on many minds and hearts and they have responded in the doing something for the hospital. The little ones in Mrs. Wible's school in the High street building had promised a donation of $20 toward the hospital last year and during the winter they gathered their pennies and had the delight in paying off the entire sum before school closed. Not long ago Johnny Maloney, of the County Home, said he had a gift for the hospital and it was a five dollar bill. During the past ten days the Battlefield Guides decided they wanted to make a donation to the hospital and resolved upon $100 collection from the guides, and last week presented their handsome donation of $80 to the hospital.

This interest has been exhibited in the dances, bridges, picture shows and other benefits given for the hospital. Whatever it is, our people unite in giving support and every one of these benefits have proven to be real ones in the increase of funds for the hospital.

This interest has been made manifest throughout the county as well as in the town. Mrs. E. S. Lewars as chairman of the committee to organize the woman auxiliary branches throughout the county, has been going from one place to another and meeting people who are glad to assist in organizing auxiliaries and prepare to do what can be done for the hospital. The membership to the general auxiliary or to one of the branches is $1.00 for each member. McSherrystown has its branch established. Mrs. Lewars has organized branches in Orrtanna, Cashtown, Fairfield, Arentsville, Littlestown, and New Oxford. Biglerville will be visited this week and every section will be visited until twelve or more branches have been organized. It will be part of the work of each auxiliary to collect food supplies, under the direction of Mrs. Wm. Arch. McClean, chairman of the Food Committee, and everywhere the women of the county are found ready for the splendid service of support they can give. It is at this time of canning and preserving the hospital is being remembered in the homes of many of our people.

All the material for the marble floor on the two floors of the hospital has been received and men are here at work putting down this flooring and when it is completed the hospital building will be finished and ready for the equipment of supplies which have been ordered and are expected to arrive in the next few weeks.

Baby Health Clinic.

Miss Katherine Miller, Social Worker from the State Department of Health has been in Gettysburg and different parts of Adams county during the past week, in the interests of the health of the community. She has been especially interested in the establishing of health centers, and the first one for the county is being planned at Gettysburg. It will be held in the Red Cross room on High street, and will open Wednesday afternoon, July 21, from two to four o'clock. The local doctors will serve in rotation, and Miss Kerstetter the State Nurse for Adams county and Miss Briel the Civic Nurse, will cooperate with the Red Cross in caring for the Baby Health Clinic. The scales, which have arrived, are being furnished by the Junior Red Cross, and the State Department of Health will furnish literature and some of the supplies.

The Baby Health Clinic will be held weekly and is for the purpose of giving to mothers and those who care for little children all possible help in keeping the babies well, and it is the desire of those who are planning it, that Adams county will be saved from furnishing its share of the nine thousand babies who may die in Pennsylvania this summer, unless somebody works to prevent it.

The Clinic is open to children under six years of age, and is not limited to Gettysburg, but it is hoped that mothers in the county will share in its benefits.

COX FAVORED OVER HARDING

BY THE NATIONAL WOMAN'S PARTY IN STATEMENT

Based on the Records of the Two Men on the Suffrage Question.

A comparison of the records of the two candidates, Cox and Harding, was compiled by the Legislative Department of the National Woman's Party and the following statement has been authorized:

"Since their nomination both Senator Harding, Republican Presidential candidate, and Governor Cox, Democratic Presidential candidate, have taken a stand favoring suffrage. Their records and the various steps that have finally led them to take this favorable stand are to be found at the Woman's Party headquarters.

"Senator Harding's suffrage record was varied, evasive and non-committal until the Autumn of 1919 when, on Oct. 1, he cast his first vote for the Nineteenth Amendment.

As early as June 24, 1915, deputations from the Woman's party began calling on him to ask his stand on the question of political freedom for women. Then he said:

"Believing as I do in political parties, I had much rather that the party to which I belong should, in its conference, make a declaration, than to assume a leadership or take an individual position on the question."

"On Jan. 20, 1916, when asked a similar question he said he did not see how he 'could vote for suffrage and against prohibition.' He thought he would vote against the amendment."

"In June, 1916, Senator Harding made the keynote speech at the Republican National Convention in Chicago. Before he spoke he was interviewed by members of the Woman's Party and asked to mention suffrage in his address, recognizing it as one of the most important issues before the country. He said he had not decided upon everything in his speech, that there would be time to add the suffrage issue to his address, and that he would consider it. But the speech was made with no mention of suffrage in it.

Wanted Party to Decide.

"On Nov. 11, 1916, when interviewed by a member of the Woman's Party, he said he was inclined to leave the solution of the question to his party. He thought it would be presumptuous for him to dictate to his party. He was not interested."

"On April 26, 1917, he declared himself favorable to the amendment, but it did not appeal to him as a war measure."

"On July 10 of the same year he said he did not approve of aiding the suffragists; that the President could put through the measure if he would and that he might vote for the amendment."

"On Aug. 2, 1917, he said he could not do anything to support the amendment, but he sympathized with those working for it."

"Feb. 18, 1918, he said he 'deprecated a too rapid advance of democracy and consequently would hold back on woman suffrage.'"

"But on Oct. 1, 1918, Senator Harding had emerged from the mist of non-committal atmosphere and voted for the amendment. He also voted for it in February and in June of the next year when it passed Congress."

"Since his nomination he has refused to take a decisive stand to enforce final ratification when interviewed by a delegation of the Woman's Party."

"Dissatisfaction was also the result of the non-committal statements given out following a conference between Senator Harding and Governor Clement, relative to calling a special session in Vermont to ratify the amendment."

"Governor Cox, who has three times been Governor of his State, had left Congress when the National Woman's Party was organized in 1913."

"Consequently his part in the passage of the amendment could not be so active, since he had no vote to cast. But his influence in gaining the Senatorial votes of his State and in legislative measures was consequently sought."

"From the first he has shown a favorable attitude and has been willing to meet the suggestions made him by the women to whom he has given audience on the subject."

"June 18, 1917, he gave an interview to a representative of the Woman's Party and discussed in detail with her the militant movement of the suffrage, showing a marked interest and speaking favorably of the amendment."

"At the time of the Democratic Convention in June, 1916, in St. Louis, he announced to a deputation from the Woman's Party that he would do what he could for suffrage at the convention and that he stood for the measure."

"During the period of ratification deputations have called on the Governor several times and have always been assured of his support of the amendment when the resolution should come up in the Legislature."

"When Governor Burnquist, of Minnesota, wired him asking his position to Ohio's ratifying the measure, he wired:

"Ohio Legislature now in recess, will convene June 16. It is my judgment that the Legislature will ratify."

"And Ohio did ratify the amendment on June 16, being the fourth State on the suffrage roll."

"On the day following his nomination he took a step that won the approval of all suffragists, when he wired the Chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee of Louisiana, whose Legislature, then in session, already had defeated the amendment:

"It is a duty of the Legislature of Louisiana owes to the Democratic Party to ratify at once."

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Lower left for their home in Savannah, Ill., where Mr. Lower is employed as an accountant by the government.

Opinion in Collins Case Arrives.

The opinion of the Supreme Court sustaining Judge McPherson in the Collins case has been received. The question was the constitutionality of the "500 yard" Act of 1860. According to the opinion "the Act of March 30, 1860, merely defines what should be regarded as the vicinage, having limits as fixed and as certain as those of either of the counties. A part of each county a strip of 500 yards becomes a part of the vicinage or neighborhood in which the crime was committed and the State prosecutes and tries the offenders in either county. When the election is made the jurors are summoned from the county in which the offender is tried for it is of the vicinage as definitely fixed by the legislature. That body could have declared the vicinage to be co-terminus with the county but it has not done so and there is nothing in our constitution forbidding the legislature from so doing." It is likely that Reinecker will now receive his sentence also, after which the records will be sent to the Governor.

COX ON CAMPAIGN ISSUES.

League of Nations—During the war everybody was for a League of Nations. Nobody was opposed to it. Everybody agreed that it was absolutely essential to stop forever the useless slaughter of millions of men. *** Why, then, did the Republican Senators begin after the armistice to cast discredit upon the League? It was nothing but partisan bigotry and a blind desire for political ammunition in the coming election. Of course, there are some conscientious objectors to the League: some few men who are really opposed to it. But its organized opposition was a deep-laid and as carefully planned a conspiracy as was ever planned by Germany. *** I am not saying that the League is perfect. No human document is. As you already know, I have suggested two reservations myself, but there must be no reservation that will nullify the treaty.

The Irish Question—I have given deep thought to the Irish question. They are warm-hearted, courageous, patriotic people. You have to respect any man who does not forget his forebears, and to the Irish Ireland is a shrine that has been drenched in blood and tears. *** I am thoroughly convinced that the Irish question will be solved satisfactorily. The controversy will be allayed, Ireland satisfied, England satisfied, as well as the rest of the world. The problem of Ireland is not a race question. It is purely one of geography.

Prohibition—Prohibition is ordered by the constitutional provision and by Federal statute. The President of the United States takes oath to support both. It has never been my habit to violate my oath, and an officer who does not enforce the law is worse than the man who breaks it. We accept both the Constitution and the statutes as the will of the majority. I represent the Jeffersonian principle that the majority can do as it will regarding the prohibition question. They may leave it on the statute book or may repeal it, but as long as I am a public officer I shall accept what is as the will of the majority.

The High Cost of Living—I believe that the high cost of living is largely due to too many turnovers. Excess profit takes its toll at each turn. By the time the article reaches the consumer the toll has been paid several times. The Federal Government must take a vital interest in the broad subject of marketing, and the number of turnovers should be cut down. Of course, funds to support the Government must be raised. I favor as a means to this end an excess profit tax, and a one to one and one-half per cent. on business of growing concerns. I believe in retaining the income tax, with heavy impost upon large incomes. This does not affect business so seriously, because no income tax must be paid unless the business is profitable.
